The diagram illustrates a hierarchical structure with four levels. At the top level, there are four categories: B9, B7, B6, and B10. These are grouped into two intermediate categories: C1 (containing B9 and B7) and C2 (containing B6 and B10). These two intermediate categories are then grouped together under a final category, C3. The diagram uses horizontal lines to represent the hierarchy, with the top level being the widest and the bottom level being the narrowest.
